

Daily Planet

Customer and Employee Relations Directorate,
Internal Relations and Communications Department

Wednesday, May 15

2002

Creedon, Venneri named to new positions by O'Keefe

Dr. Jeremiah F. Creedon, director of NASA's Langley Research Center in Hampton, Va., has been named associate administrator for the Office of Aerospace Technology at NASA Headquarters. Samuel L. Venneri, who has been associate administrator for the Enterprise since February 2000, will remain at Headquarters as chief technologist. NASA Administrator Sean O'Keefe made the announcements, which become effective June 15. For more information, go to <http://www.aerospace.nasa.gov/> or <http://www.larc.nasa.gov/>

No taxi service from 8:30 a.m. - noon Wednesday

STS-110 crew visits Marshall May 22

Kostelnik named deputy for Space Station and Shuttle

NASA Administrator Sean O'Keefe named retired Air Force Maj. Gen. Michael C. Kostelnik as deputy associate administrator for the International Space Station and Space Shuttle. The position is a newly created senior management position within the Office of Space Flight to provide leadership and accountability for top-level safety requirements, mission success criteria, overall policy definition and strategic planning for the two programs. For biographical information, go to http://www.af.mil/news/biographies/kostelnik\_mc.html

<http://inside.msfc.nasa.gov>